

Class AA schools chase at state in track starts today

By Ryan Dieckman

The race for state hardware begins this morning as 27 Quad-Cities metro athletes made the trek south to Charleston to participate in the Class AA State Track Meet.

Action gets under way at 9 a.m. and continues through Saturday, where the finals will be at Eastern Illinois University's O'Brien Stadium.

Headlining the locals is Rock Island, which is sending 13 to state. United Township follows with seven participants; Geneseo with five; and Moline with two.

Showcasing the individual times is Rocky's Danny Tutskey, who has a 10.8-second clocking in the 100 and the third-highest 200 state time of 21.6 among the qualifying competition.

The Rocky senior is also a member of the 4x100 relay, which includes Adam Hill, John Austin and Ronel Muskeyvalley with a time of 42.4, sixth-best in the field.

R.I. coach Ed Lillis also had Lars Sundfor (shot put), Ryan Barton (400), Ellery Stewart (300 IM hurdles), Craig Lawrence (1600), Sean Mendoza (3200), Tyler Carroll and Tom Ryerson (pole vault) and Hill (100, 200) in individual events.

The 3200 relay (Colin Belby, Ryan Allen, Lawrence, Barton) and the 800 relay (Tutskey, Hill, Austin, Muskeyvalley) round out the contingent from Rock Island.

For UT, senior Jason Connell, a top-10 state finisher in the discus last year, will be aiming for a top-8 medal finish, while Bubba Akers is making his first trip in the long and triple jump.

The Panthers also have the 400 relay consisting of Randy Frazier, Terence Clark, Justin Hoggard and Jamar Harris headed along with the 4x200 (Sylvester Banks, Clark, Frazier, Harris).

The Maple Leafs have a returning state qualifier in junior Chris Studer in the 3200. Joining him will be teammates Adam Anderson, Tom Anderson, Mark Keplinger and Grant Venema in the 4x800 relay.

Moline also has a returner to Charleston in senior Nick Ruud in the discus. The Maroon tossed a career-best 160-11 at the Rock Island Sectional a week ago and looks to better a top-10 finish from last year.

Junior mate Tim McDonald has the 11th-fastest time in the 300 IM hurdles (39.0) and also sports a nifty 14.6 in the 110 high hurdles.

Final flash

Five compete at IHSA boys state track meet

J. D. Darnall High School's 3200-meter relay team earned ninth in their heat at the IHSA Boys State track meet in Charleston Friday, May 29.

Grant Venema, Mark Keplinger, Tom Anderson and Adam Anderson clocked in at 8:06.32 in the preliminary heat.

The top 12 times of all three heats qualified for the finals on Saturday, May 30.

The Geneseo contingent's time ranked 23rd overall. A total of 36 foursomes made up the three preliminary heats of the 3200 relay.

Hinsdale Central clocked the best preliminary mark with a time of 7:49.35. In the finals on Saturday, Schaumburg took the state crown, clocking through at 7:50.01. Hinsdale was second, 7:50.53. Rantoul, which took first in Geneseo's heat race at 7:55.35, placed fifth overall with a time of 7:55.72.

No preliminary heats were held for the 3200-meter run so the first time Leaf Chris Studer saw action was Saturday, May 30. He ran in the first finals section, placing eighth in the field with a time of 10:05.80. His time was good for a 28th overall finish.

The individual winner in the 3200 was Mark Pilja of Naperville North. Pilja finished with a time of 9:07.87.

T. Anderson and A. Anderson are both senior members of the Leafs track team while Keplinger and Studer are juniors. Venema is a sophomore on the varsity squad. This was Studer's second consecutive trip to the top meet.

CHARLESTON — Danny Tutskey took a taste of tough luck in stride.

"I can't be disappointed," the Rock Island sprinter surprisingly said following a frustrating Friday for local competitors at the Class AA Boys State Track Meet.

Tutskey missed qualifying for

today's 100-meter dash championships by 1/100th of a second and also watched in horror as a dropped baton between 4x200 teammates Adam Hill and John Austin cost the Rocks another chance to advance.

Rocky's senior star also missed qualifying in the 200, despite blazing to a 22.32 to rank eighth among semi-final times. Trouble is, the top three from each heat advance to the finals and Tutskey found himself finishing fifth in the fastest heat.

"It happens," Tutskey said shrugging off the misfortune. "These are, after all, the best runners in the state. So I can't let any of that stuff bother me. I tried as hard as I could and left my guts out there and, at least, I made one final."

But Tutskey and 4x100 teammates Hill, Austin and Ronel Muskeyvalley were alone among the locals able to celebrate simple survival at Eastern Illinois University's O'Brien Stadium.

A scorching, 95-degree day was the backdrop for a finals freeze out for all but Rocky's 400 relay team and 3200 competitors Sean Mendoza of Rock Island and Chris Studer of Geneseo.

The 3200 didn't run Friday. The event goes off in two heats today, with medals going to the top eight times.

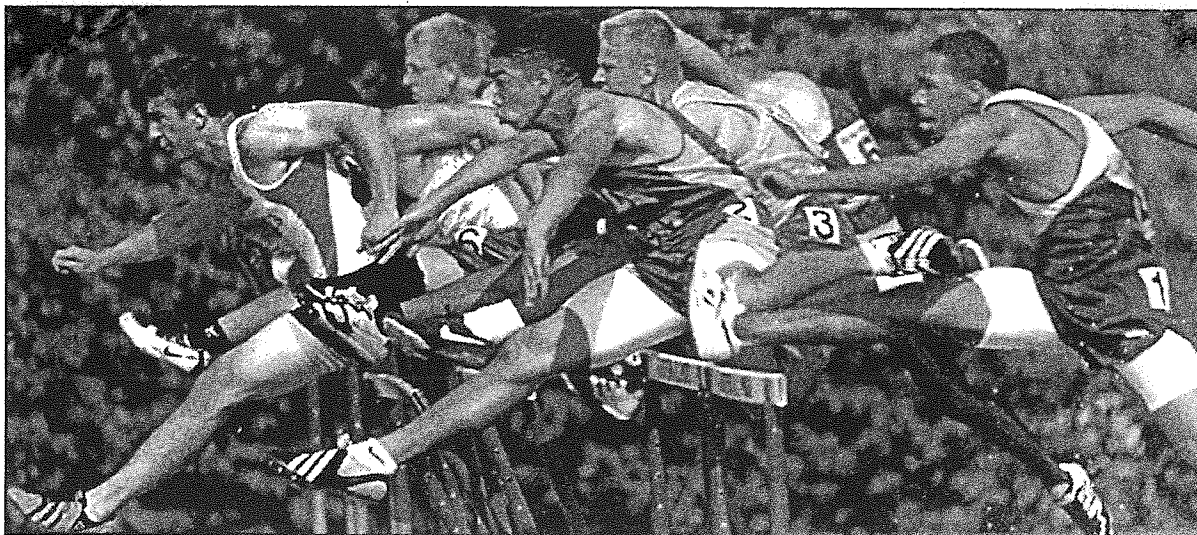

"But whether you're out there 10 seconds or 10 minutes, this is what all the sit ups, all the push ups and all the morning runs are for," Rock Island distance-man Craig Lawrence said, echoing the thoughts of the 21 Q-C qualifiers falling out of state medal contention Friday.

Lawrence, Mendoza and 3200 relay teammates Ryan Barton and Ryan Allen took fourth in their preliminary heat, but failed to qualify for today's finals by just over six seconds.

In the 1600, Lawrence was seventh in his prelim and missed today's run-offs by nearly nine ticks.

"It just feels good to be out there, competing in this atmosphere," Lawrence added. "It's an indescribable experience and I feel blessed to have finished my season and my career on this track."

Also wrapping their prep careers one day shorter than desired were United Township's Bubba Akers (long jump, triple jump) and Jason Connell (discus), Moline's Nick Ruud (discus) and Rocky's Tyler Carroll (pole vault) and Lars Sundfor (shot put).

United Township's all-senior 800 relay of Sylvester Banks, Randy Frazier, Terence Clark and Jamar Harris also failed to qualify out of the prelims.

Frazier, Clark, Harris and junior Justin Hoggard came up short in the 400 relay, too.

Friday's cut was also unkind to Geneseo's 3200 relay, consisting of Grant Venema, Mark Keplinger and seniors Tom and Adam Anderson.

Others failing to secure finals berths were Moline's Tim McDonald (110 high hurdles, 300 intermediate hurdles) and Rocky's Tom Ryerson (pole vault), Ellery Stewart (300 hurdles) and Barton (400).

Like Tutskey, Hill failed to advance in his individual events, scratching in the 100 (prelims) and 200 (semis).

"Hopefully we can make up for all that by medaling (today)," Tutskey said. Rocky's 4x100 had the rock-bottom qualifying time of 42.61.

"We can't look back and let any of that bother us. We can't change anything. We have to look ahead at what we can control."

Tutskey's tough-luck time in the 100 semis was a full-tenth off his preliminary time of 11.02.

"The heat might have gotten to me a little bit," Tutskey allowed after some persistent prying. "I was pretty busy (Friday)."

Not today.

"You can't blame those guys from the drop in the 4x200. It hasn't happened to those guys all year, it's just unfortunate it happened here," Tutskey said. "But we got through the 4x100 together and now we've just got to focus on bringing home some hardware in that event."

Other maddening misfortunes befell Moline's McDonald and Sundfor. Each scratched in an event — McDonald in the 110 high, Sundfor in the shot — while McDonald also came up .59 of a second short of the qualifying time in the 300 intermediates.

Akers also had close calls in the jumps, falling short of season-bests and failing to qualify by two inches in the triple and 4 1/4 inches in the long.

Ruud was also maddeningly close, coming within five inches off qualifying in the discus. Connell's 150-10 was much farther off the 159-9 needed, though.

Carroll and Ryerson both cleared 13-6 in the pole vault, but were knocked out at the 13-9 qualifying height.

Barton and Stewart were nearly two seconds off the times they needed.

Geneseo's 3200 relay was nearly 10 seconds off the advancing pace. UT was less than two ticks back in the 400 relay and the Panthers' 800 team missed by less than three seconds.
