2007

At the end of the 2007 cross-country season, there was no pace set for the next year. There was some uncertainty and only vague ideas of what to expect. After all, many of the top senior runners had made the move to college and the team was comprised of a relatively young group. No one was sure exactly what would happen.

After intense-but-fun summer training, the group was ready to toe the line. Working hard in practice and adhering to the advice of Coach Fredericks and Coach Timmerman (who often reminded runners to "KIP it!"), things soon began to fall into place. While the boys' team struggled throughout the year to find a rhythm, the girls' team "clicked" and strode towards repeated success.

Both groups improved a great deal, with many of the newer runners shaving minutes off their first times. New friendships were formed and the athletes ran side-by-side, pushing each other to get better and congratulating each other for well-earned accomplishments. Although the boys' team wasn't able to advance through the regional, Josh Lodge continued as an individual and the girls' team took the first spot to progress to the sectional at Belvedere. After a heartbreaking race, the season came to a close.

Even so, the team was able to create its own place that, with loads of athletes returning in 2008, could reach great heights in the upcoming season. With backbones, belief, and perseverance, wonderful possibilities await not only for the next season but also for the rest of the athletes' lives.
